Module: Conclusion

Conclusion Video – Transcript

We hope you enjoyed exploring our Faculty Online Readiness modules, and that they inspired you to want to develop an online course with us!

Now that you've gone through these modules, you are more informed about who we are and what is involved in developing an online course.

As you take the first steps to begin your journey to create an online course with the eConcordia team, remember, we will be there to support you throughout the course development process. Together—with your dedication and collaboration—we can design and create an innovative course and ensure a memorable learning experience for students!

We look forward to working with you!
